THE END

"I remember every detail of those Saturday morning movies I went to as a kid," says Tomie de Paola. "Standing in line for the ticket, the smell and sound of the popcorn popping, racing up the stairs to the balcony and feeling my way down the steps to the front row in the darkness. And then—the magic began. The music, the squeaky, jerky motion of the curtain opening as the picture played over it, and the stars who filled the screen and my heart! Mickey Mouse and Mae West were my favorites..."

Tomie de Paola, who is a star in the children's book world, lives and works in a small town in New Hampshire.
